Time Management ... organizing your life

Wednesday, February 28
12:00 p.m - 1:00 p.m. CT

Want help managing your time and prioritizing your to-do list?

With over 15 years of working with clients of Boeing, Microsoft, Nike and more, Daryl Rother will share effective strategies to increase productivity, meet deadlines and more effectively manage projects - and your devices.

As he presents concepts to help you choose the right resources, he'll also discuss which behaviors might need adjusting, such as turning off your notifications when you're with family and other simple steps to make you feel less overwhelmed.

Though technology is designed to make life easier, using what works for you is key. Sort through the clutter and realign your activities to position business goals and objectives at the forefront.

Daryl's background includes senior management roles and experience working with companies and teams across many different industries, from Fortune 500 to start-ups. With an MBA from Seattle University, he's also earned certifications for both Project Management Professional and Professional in Human Resources.
